Labour concealed antisemitic threat against Jewish MP Luciana Berger

On 26 May 2016, the Plenary in Bucharest decided to:

Adopt the following non-legally binding working definition of antisemitism:

"Antisemitism is a certain perception of Jews, which may be expressed as hatred toward Jews. Rhetorical and physical manifestations of antisemitism are directed toward Jewish or non-Jewish individuals and/or their property, toward Jewish community institutions and religious facilities."

To guide IHRA in its work, the following examples may serve as illustrations:

Manifestations might include the targeting of the state of Israel, conceived as a Jewish collectivity. However, criticism of Israel similar to that leveled against any other country cannot be regarded as antisemitic. Antisemitism frequently charges Jews with conspiring to harm humanity, and it is often used to blame Jews for "why things go wrong." It is expressed in speech, writing, visual forms and action, and employs sinister stereotypes and negative character traits.

Summary:

The Labour Party failed to alert police to a violent antisemitic [5] threat made against one of its MPs that is now subject to a criminal investigation. Party officials were aware of the threat to Luciana Berger, [6] who is Jewish, for at least six months and included it in a dossier of abuse by members being investigated by the party. Neither Ms Berger nor the police were informed, however, and an investigation began only after the dossier was leaked to the radio station LBC, which passed it to Cressida Dick, the Metropolitan Police
