Summary:

But that is not the half of it. Peterborough's postal vote was far above the normal percentage (and almost 10,000 strong) and heavily utilised in the city's most Muslim area. There are stories of imams filling in voter slips for worshippers and local non-Labour Muslims have complained of intimidation. Labour is also accused of buying votes at ten quid a go. If this were not a problem associated with Muslim community leaders and activists then I suspect it would be front-page news.
